

EXPLORING PERU

Senior Geologist

Melbourne, Australia

The chance to join a dynamic Australian exploration company as it expands its South American portfolio

Peru, land of the Incas, Machu Picchu, the Amazon and the Andes also holds significant oil and natural gas reserves. As local energy consumption has rapidly outgrown production, Peru is experiencing an exciting new phase of oil and gas exploration activity.

Karoon Gas is a listed ASX200 company with a diverse portfolio of high value exploration and appraisal acreage, including some significant discoveries offshore Australia and offshore/onshore South America. The company is about to embark on a multi-well drilling campaign in all its key focus regions - Australia, Brazil and Peru - as well as targeting an aggressive new ventures program.

To support this program, we are keen to hear from senior geologists with international exploration and new venture evaluation experience to move into a newly created role. Based in Melbourne and working within a small group of multi-disciplinary and talented professionals, you will contribute to the forthcoming exploration program in Peru as well as identify, evaluate and capture new venture opportunities.

Suitable candidates will have at least 10 years experience with a wide range of skills in geology and some seismic interpretation experience, as well as expertise in structural and stratigraphic interpretation. The focus of this role will be on basin evaluation, including passive margin and strike slip basin interpretation, play fairway evaluations and prospect and appraisal skills. The ability to work on a variety of projects is critical. Strong hydrocarbon province and petroleum systems analysis skills are required and exposure to the petroleum systems of South America is advantageous.

Candidates must be technically outstanding and dynamic individuals, capable of executing plans for portfolio growth and delivering exploration success. This will be achieved through team work, creativity and a passion for geology. Excellent communication skills are essential.

A competitive salary package and other benefits will be provided, designed to attract the very best. Relocation and visa assistance will also be available where appropriate.
